Swiss AviationSoftware voted 'Best IT Software Provider' 2013
May 2013

Thank you for supporting Swiss-AS!

Swiss-AS is pleased to announce being awarded "Best IT Software Provider 2013" by Aircraft Technology Engineering and Maintenance (ATE&M).

Ronald Schaeuffele, CEO of Swiss-AS, accepted the award earlier this month during the ceremony in the prestigious Shakespeare's Globe Theatre in London, UK. More than 300 delegates from the aviation industry attended the event.

"Being awarded "Best IT Software Provider" is a great honour for Swiss AviationSoftware – especially in view of the tough competition. We would like to take this opportunity to thank our customers and all additional supporters! This prize is not only an important sign with regard to external recognition in the MRO IT market but also internally as a token of esteem for our employees," states Ronald Schaeuffele.

After the initial industry-wide voting process, four dozen of the world's leading companies were shortlisted in 12 categories out of 1'000 nominations worldwide.
In the final voting round the ATE&M readers and aerospace professionals voted the winners for 2013 for each category.

The fact that the categories are mixed and every voter had to select their favourite from each category makes the award especially meaningful since it represents not only one part but the aviation sector in total.
